THIRD THURSDAY PREVIEW

September's meeting will be hosted by John and Carolyn Grew-Sheridan at their studio located at 500 Treat Avenue in the City (see map below). The phone number is 824-6161. We are fortunate to have as our featured speaker Art Carpenter of Bolinas California, one of the deans of American woodworking, who will give us an illustrated talk on his work and its development. The spotlight this month will be on a Honduras mahogany serving table by member Cynthia Huntington. It promises to be an exceptionally interesting meeting, so plan to attend.

Directions:

The Grew-Sheridan studio is in San Francisco's Mission District, 5 blocks east of Mission St., between 18th & 19th Streets. From the East Bay, exit from the Bay Bridge at 8th St., take Harrison on a half-left away from downtown S.F. At 16th & Harrison St, Treat St. begins to your right. The studio address is 500 Treat St. There is plenty of parking on Treat.

Our August 15th meeting was hosted by White Brothers Hardwoods of Oakland. Don White and his staff greeted BAWA members, talked about the many "good buys" available that evening. During the early evening, beer and soft drinks were available as members inspected and selected materials. A buffet of potato salads, ravioli and delicious BBQ steak and trimmings.

Norton Abrasives representative had a display of products of interest to our members and answered questions.

The PICNIC PARTY for BAWA members and their families and friends is still scheduled for Sunday, October 6th, from the early afternoon on in a Oaks and Redwood setting across from the Rose Garden in Cordonices Park in Berkeley. Bob Newhall, who also organized the 1983 outing, will provide the paper plates and charcoal. Everyone else should contribute food, drinks, games and musical instruments. To get to the park take the University Avenue exit to its end at Oxford. Take Oxford one block left to Hearst. Take a right onto Hearst. Drive up Hearst to Euclid and take a left onto Euclid. Go up Euclid to the park and look for the signs. The BAWA space is rented until 8 p.m.

From the chair.....

Our september general meeting is one I have been looking forward to for quite a while. Art Carpenter, as most of you know, has been working with wood for quite a number of years and has achieved a level of status many of us aspire to. He has graciously consented to address our group, giving us an illustrated tour of the development of his oeuvre. He has also expressed a willingness to field questions from the floor, both during and after his talk, so have your querries ready for this unique opportunity. Thank you Art Carpenter. (Some interesting background information on can be found in an article featuring Mr.Carpenter and his work in FINE WOODWORKING no.37).

All reports seem to indicate that August's general meeting at White Brothers Lumber was a blast, one not to have been missed. Members I spoke to all seemed to agree that the food was great, the presentation informative and usefull, and the ambience superb. Thanks again to Don White, Dennis Boruso and the staff at White Brothers for hosting this gala event. Rumor has it that this may turn into an annual event! Sounds terrific.

Our scheduled speaker for October's general meeting, upholsterer Bob Kroll, unfortunately had to bow out. There are replacements in the works, but any suggestions for meeting topics are still most welcome. Also, there is still room for input into the executive committee meetings and the promotional and show committees. I urge you to get involved.

Ruth Friend, the Executive Director of the Baulines Craftsmens' Guild, reports that the AMERICAN CRAFTS/DESIGN '85 show at 200 Kansas Street during Market Week was a success. The presentation format by Ted Cohen of the Oakland Museum won much praise. National publications are developing stories about the event and department stores are interested in picking up the concept. In the end the production costs of $10,000 were covered by exhibitor's fees and donations. Of course, immense amounts of donated labor were given.

Excerpt from the Examiner in case you missed it, (I almost did): "Colonial Williamsburg has a new museum, the DeWitt Wallace Decorative Arts Gallery. Chief curator Graham Hood explains that in the historic houses of Colonial Williamsburg, the furniture and objects are viewed primarily in their utilitarian roles. In the new museum, they are displayed in a more aesthetic light, where they may be viewed up close and appreciated for their intrinsic beauty, craftsmanship, scale, proportion and design. An exceptional mahogany chest-on-chest made by Philadelphia cabinetmaker Thomas Affleck in 1775, which represents the highest level of American 18th century craftsmanship in wood is one of the pieces displayed."

American Craft '86

"A Conference on Crafts in the Post-Industrial Society"

Pro Arts is one of many Bay Area galleries, museums, and alternative spaces that are planning an exhibit in conjunction with American Crafts '86. This conference, sponsored by the American Crafts Council and hosted by the Oakland Museum, will be held in Oakland from June 4-7, 1986. Pro Arts has tentatively scheduled one of its two galleries for an exhibition of work from BAWA members. The available space is about 750 sq. ft. The tentative dates of the exhibition are June 2nd-28th, 1986.

Fine craftsmanship is the emphasis of the exhibition, and the number of participants will be determined by the scale and the nature of the work submitted for jurying.

Interested members should attend the coming meeting or contact Kirk Beck or Don DuPont so that we can assess the group's interest in this project.

About Pro Arts:

Pro Arts, a non-profit arts organization, was founded in 1974 as the Alameda County Neighborhood Arts Program (ACNAP) in order to support and promote arts activities in Alameda County. Pro Arts gained national recognition for its independent exhibitions program during the International Sculpture Center's Conference held in Oakland in 1982. The independent exhibitions program was able to place 200 artist's works in alternative spaces throughout Alameda County during the conference. Pro Arts is also responsible for organizing the very successful "Artspace" Open Studio Tours, which allows the community to visit artists studios one weekend each year. In January 1985, Pro Arts relocated to a larger space at 1929 Union St. in Oakland, and is currently focusing on supporting artists' needs; primarily exhibition opportunities.

The WOODWORKERS' GROUP OF NEW SOUTH WALES (Australia, for those of us who don't get to travel as much as we would like) reports a successful furniture show held in the Sydney Opera House. Excerpts from "Chairs in Friuli" (northwest region of Italy):

"Friuli's chair industry consists mainly of small to medium companies in which production is facilitated by the physical concentration of firms into a relatively small area. The industry's production system has developed horizontally, thanks mainly to the presence of highly specialized producers of semi-finished parts and other companies which carry out special phases of the production process. The result is that the firms which supply the finished products are extremely versatile and are thus able to respond rapidly to the changing requirements of the market, simultaneously producing several different types of chairs at highly competitive prices.

Udine's International Chair Exhibition takes place immediately before the internationally important Copenhagen Furniture Exhibition."

(Attendance in 1984 was approximately 5000, up from 95 at the first show in 1977. May, 1986 will be the 10th Anniversary. For information regarding exhibiting or attending write: Gianni Bravo, Pres. of Promosedia, 33100 Udine, Via Pradamano, 2/A, Italy.)

PATENT LAW TIME LIMIT

Woodworkers who develop a unique furniture design can protect their idea with a design patent under the provisions of Section 35 of the U. S. Code, or Federal Law. The designer must be prompt about applying for protection according to Paul Lempio, an engineer and patent attorney in San Francisco.

However, one is not entitled to apply for a domestic patent if the item was exhibited or publicized more than one year prior to the date of the application for the design patent. In fact for an international patent any public or print showing will eliminate the chance of approval of an application. The reasoning is that markets are so competitive that after public exposure it is impossible to prove who first came up with the design, if it was not first patented.
